

Bridport Prize Winners

2011

Short Story Judge: AL Kennedy

1st Arrivederci Les - Kitty Aldridge, London

2nd Trying to Think in the Bantustan - Kevin Parry, Seaford, E Sussex

3rd Dinner At Benutti's - Barrie de Lara, Norwich

Highly Commended (alphabetical order)

Elephants Aren't Forgotten - Sheila Barrett, Dublin

The Last Place You Look - Tray Butler, Atlanta, USA

Half-Life of a Stolen Sister - Rachel Cantor, New York, USA

Some Times - James Kinase, London

Love by proxy - Justine Mann, Norwich

Wishbone Duty - Dave Pescod, Cambridge

Methlahem - Peggy Riley, Whitstable, Kent

Saul Kaplan's Midrash - Martha Schulman, New York, USA

European Monetary Union - Bernadette Smyth, Dundalk, Ireland

The Long Straight Road - Pat Winslow, Hailey Witney, Oxon

Flash Fiction: Al Kennedy

1st Meeting the Lobster - Becky Tipper, Fredericksburg, USA

2nd More Like A Sister - Robert Maslen, Thornton, Bradford

3rd The Christmas House - Samuel Wright, London

Highly Commended (alphabetical order)

North End, 2010 - Stace Budzko, Massachusetts, USA

Vampires - John Glenday, Drumnadrochit, Scotland

Filament - John-Paris Kent, London

Poetry Judge: Carol Ann Duffy

1st Endowments - Terry Jones, Carlisle

2nd Caesarean - Andrew Slattery, NSW, Australia

3rd Queen - Sean Borodale, Oakhill, Somerset

Highly Commended (alphabetical order)

The Lanternfish - Lindy Barbour, Carnwath, Scotland

One Step at a Time - Liz Bassett, W Kilbride, Scotland

The Letter - Ronald Carey, Dublin, Ireland

Kingfisher on a Tram - Julia Deakin, Flockton Moor, Yorkshire

At the Traffic Light by the Old Folks' Home - Birgit Elston, Hamilton, Canada

Giving Alms to the Birds - Rebecca Perry, London

Lecture - Lesley Saunders, Slough, Berkshire

The Perforation Gauge - Paul Stephenson, London

The Egret - Christian Ward, Kingston-upon-Thames

It has come to our attention that this poem, The Egret, is a direct copy of a poem published by the Australian poet, Debbie Lim, in 2009. An explanation for this has been asked of Christian Ward.

The Man - Anna Woodford, Newcastle upon Tyne

Dorset Prize Winner

Hare Maker - Alan Chedzoy, Weymouth